

In many places, police officers are trained to give first aid. If they arrive first, they can help until the ambulance comes.

